Honor to whom Honor is Duc. The elegant suite of rooms occupied by Mr YANGEY, at the Louisville Hotel, were thronged yesterday, by men of all parties, to pay a tribute of respect to this distinguished orstor, and a aplendid collation was served up by the gentlenanly proprietors, and amidst the popping o champague corks and witty repartees, all party of parties, sought to show their admiration of the distinguished etatesman, who so boldly claims that Southern rights shall be recognized, and that the principle of equal rights shall be adhered to.

THEATER .- A very fine house last night, the attraction being Victor Hugo's Hunchback of Notre Dame, and the Hypochoudriac of Mr. Barras. In the former play Miss St. Clair has made the most deelded hit of her whole engagement. She enters into the spirit of the part so fully that it is easily to be seen that it is a favorite one with her, and has consequently received the closest and most eareful study. She was ably and admirably supported, especially by Mr. Elmore, in his truly artistic rendition of Quasimodo, and by Mr. Krone as the Monk. Mrs. Elmore also deserves great credit for the monner in which she played the Recluse. It surpassed, in excellence, everything that we have yet seen from this lady.

To-night the grand spectacle of Jesse Brown, founded on an Incident of the siege of Lucknow, will be performed. The play has been in active preparation for some time past, and we are confident will be put upon the stage in exaellent style. Most of our readers will recol iect the incident of the Scotch lassic, at the siege of Lucknow, who heard the faint sound of the hagpipes of the Seventy-cighth Regiment advancing to the relief of the beleagured ity, and the rapturous scene which ensued when the few brave defenders of the city were elieved from the gloomy despair which had overwhelmed them. The story has been worked up into one of the most effective dramas of the stage-the one advertised in to-

SECOND DAT.
There was a conflict of attractions in our city yesterday. Mr. Yancey on the first part, and the trottling mees at Woodlawn on the second; of the first we cannot say, but know that the present being ladice. When pools were soid as the Galt House Monday evening, "Bolly Lewis" was the favorite, but yesterday morning opin-ions changed, and "Miller's Damsel" had the call against the field, at odds of seventy-five to fitty. "Ike Cook" and "Lady Woodlawn"

Promptly at half past two o'clock the jndges entered the stand and signalled the horses. "Lady Woodlawn" was the first to appear on the track, but only a few moments clapsed be-foreshe was followed by "Cook," "Bolly," and the "Damsel." The drivers immediately went to warming up, and it was evident to those intlmate with the intricacles of the race coursa, that "Bolly Lewis" had the vantuge, being in tlp-top condition, while his principal antagonist, "Miller's Damsel," was unmistakably "off." her lackers, however, felt perfect contidence in Her ability, and houted at the idea that she would make a bad trot. While still speculating upon the result the horses went away for the First Heaf .- One false start was made before the word was given, but when the drum tapped, t sounded an even send off, "Miller's Damsel" having the pole, "Rolly Lewis" second, "Ike Cood" third, and "Lady Waodlawn" on the outside. "Bolly" quickly shot to the front and led around the first turn, and opened to the quarter nurk a gap of nearly a length. A second after leaving the stand, "Miller's Damsei" left her legs, and fell to "Ike Cook's" company, but she speedily recovered, and took a second position, while going down the back side. At the half mile pole, "Cook" collared the "Damsel" and laid in her company round the upper turn and on the home stretch, where he went second. The old veteran of a thousand races now started forward on a hunt for "Bolly," but the little gelding had two open lengths to spare, and he jogged home on an easy trot, winning the heat without any trouble in 25%; "Cooke" second, "Damsel" third, and "Lady Woodlawn" bringing up a rear position.

The result of this heat changed the betting, and it was an even thing with the crowd that "Bolly Lewis" would win the money, but even his own backers did not deen it prudent to risk very largely; but when time was called for the next heat he certainly had an accession of

"Ike Cook" had a slight advantage, which he increased two lengths; while making the first turn, "Bolly" made a slip, but lost nothing, managing to hold his own between "Cook" and the "Danisel." Going down the back stretch, the driver of "llolly" called for a little more ejeced, and as if cognizant of what was wanted of him, the little bay opened himself out and succeeded in closing the gap that existed brtween blurand "Cook." At the half mile mark they were lapped, and round the upper turn it was a gallant contest of speed, but "Bolly" had too much foot, and as he swing into the stretch, he showed to the front by a neck, and continued from this forward to crowd gradually mile to the head of the stretch, gained considerably by running, and passed "Ike Cook ' roming down the stretch. She slao made a brush for "Bolly," but the heat was too far gonr, and VILLE. -That our readers may not be led into a without experiencing any particular difficulty, he crossed the score fully two lengths to spare. in 2:32, "Miller" second, "Ike" third, and "Lady

The Panopti-con lus been the most successful and popular entertainment ever brought to this country For nine successive weeks it was given in New Orleans to the largest and most fashionable su-diences ever known to attend any similar exhibition. Since that time its success has been without a parallel. The New Orleans Crescent without a parallel. The New Officians Crescent lin speaking of the Panoptleou says:

This new star which has risen in the firmament of popular amusements, and which is destined to eclipse all others in brilliancy, is alghtly stamped with the seal of universal approbation by refined and delighted audiences. In justice to the artist and mechaniclam, Mons. Prospeto Bouvair, we must confess his India entertainment to be charming in its originality, graceful in its freshiess, entertaining in its novelty, impressive and convincing in its correctness. There is so much of nature, so much graceful in its freshness, cutertaining in the coverly, impressive and convincing in its correctness. There is so much of nature, so much originality, in his representations of moving men, women, horses, earringes, camels, elephants, steamships, row boats, saling vessels, trillery, cavalry, etc., that all unite in charactrizing the Panopticon as the most wonderful reduction of the age. The terrors, dangers and excitements of the battle-field; the horrors of war the immosing display of thousands on of war, the imposing display of thousands on the march; the engagement; the retreat; the vic-tory—all pass before the eyo with such vivid reality and military accuracy as to completely entrance and bewilder the spectator. We have never seen an entertainment which possessed so much attractive novelty as La Rue's Panop-ticon of Judia."

GREAT SPEECH

DELIVERED AT THE COURT HOUSE! IN THE

Gov. Magodin's Speech.

By request I arise for the purpose of introducing to you one of the most gifted oracors and one of the most distinguished stateshown in the country. (Appliause.) From what you have read of him, many of you, probably the most of you, have stern and bitter and obstinate prejudices against him. He is probably at this time the most conspienous man in the country who is not a candidate for office of any kind. He stands before you charged with being a disortant before you charged with being a disortant before you charged with treaton, and is denounced as a traitor. All lask of you, ladles and gentlemen, is that you will give him a patient and a respectful hearing. [Cries of "We will."] Sisuding, as I conceive, upon the anind platform, sustained in his position by the decision of the highest tribunal of the land, atanding upon the aquality of the States and the rights of the States—the equality of the citizen and the rights of the states—the thinon under the compact of the Countitution, and if that is disminuted then he is a traitor. [Applause.] Bold, frank, monly, and elongent see his a scholar, a statesman, and a gentleman, all I ask of you is that you will give him respectful astention while he stands before you in person to answer the you will give him respectful astention white he stands before you in person to answer the charges that have been preferred against him. I know full well that you will give him that respectful attention. A Kentucky sudience will always do it. No matter what may be the prejudy ndices, no matter what may be their opinions, they will always give to the stranger, the pario, of, and the gendenon a respectful hearing.— And these badies that have honored our distingnished visitor with their pressure, guarantee the most orderly and respectful attention, [sp-plause] for no Kantuckien, no gentleman will ever misbehave in the presence of a lady. All I have to say, in sonclusion, is that I have the homor to introduce to you the floor. WILLIAM L. YANCET, of Alabama. [Lond cheers.]

Mr. Yancey's Speech.

Ladder and Gentleman: I hope I may say, and that you will receive it, in the spiritim which it is said, reliasectizers of Louiside—I am this far on my way homeward, after a somewhat extended tour through various sections of the Union. Latterly I have been traveling through the Northern part of the Union. There I have been endeavoring to do some service in favor of the election of either Mr. Bell, Mr. Douglas, or Mr. Brecklaridge, or any other man, rather than the election of the candidate of that Northern sectional Abolition party—that disunion party—that I very much fear is like to prevail. [Applanse] There, too, fellow-chizens, my coming was heralded by the daily press of the place in which I spoke with misrepresentations, with unch amuse, with something occasionally of malignity and columny. In the North, that abuse invariably came from the Douglas organs, very often mitted with that of the Abolitou organs. I was in some way when you will have a necessity for investigating it, and when the interest of the country in some way demands that such as investigation should take place. [Applanes.]

THE ISSUE—SLATE PROPERTY.

Pardon me, I say, my friends of all parties if sometimes, when speaking with reference to a matter of this wort, I permit a word or two to escape from me which may wound. I do not desire to wound. I dusire to reason with you, not to make impassioned or excited speeches, as it is said I will make. My only desire is to talk with you in words of reason. Hear me for my csuse, and be silent that you may hear, and when you have heard, index accordingly. Now, then, this being the issue, and these the pesitions of parties, it will be well for us to look at them a little. And pray what is this institution of slavery that two parties propose to restrict and one party only proposes to defend, and that another party substraine cannot be overestimated. In the lirst place, the South contains eight millions of slaves. Their numbers, then, the numbers of those slaves, I say, make it a question of immense importance. These four millious of slaves are, I may say, immovable. They are fixed. You cannot take them and carry them away any more than you can remove or approof the great forests of Koutney You reavent. cannot take them and carry them away any more than you can remove or nproot the great forests of Kentneky. You may cut down, you may destroy, but you cannot remove. No power under the sun was ever able to remove four millions of people from the spot in which they were born and ridsed. No, my frieuds, tay this to you in all candor. Nothing but destruction can get rid of this four millions of slaves. Hence, their numbers is a matter of great impurtance.

Agadu: Look at the value of that property.—
These slaves are worth, according to Virginia prices, $2500,000,000—an amount casy to pronounce, but how difficult to conceive of to one These slaves are worsh, according to Virgiula prices, $280,00,000—an amount easy to pronounce, but how difficult to conceive of is one who knows anything about the power of multiplication of number. There is not a human being lu this house that can take pebblics and count out that many during the time of his natural life. Twenty-eight hundred unfillous of odollars are to be affected by the decision of this question. Four millions of slaves. Not only that, but the social and domestic relations of the eight millions of whites of the South are of necessity more or less affected by the decision of this question. In other words, the tendency of the issues now before the people is to affect the peace and happiness of the races. It cannot affect the lower race without affecting is. Important, then, as the question is, three parties take position on it, each differing from the other. One party takes no public position. Thus comes up the question la regard to the manner in which that question la regard to the manner in which that question ought to be treated. One would suppose that a cam id, frank arowal in favor of protection against all sorts of assanlts upon this proporty—these numbers—would certainly insure mitty, but it has not done so. One would suppose that this party if sustained by the precedent of the government, would be treated with charity by its opponents, but such is not the protected, brings with it charity or mitty, nor does the precedent I have just referred to; but there is a division among us as to this party's motives. These motives are assailed, not only by newspaper editors, and by orators at cross roads and in great cities, but they are assailed by a traveling candidate for the Presidency, but in this city had the utter want of delicary to distant to this people about thair senator elect, and to remark that in his opinion he ought to resign. (Applause, and crise of "Give it to him. My friends, we are denounced as accessionists—we are apoken of as the authors of a new dogma—by Mr. Douglas, we are

In 1850 the great opponents of slavery brought matters to a point with the Government. Up to 1850—from 1850, there existed the Missouri Compromise, which gave to the North ninetenths of the public domain, and left open to the South only one-tenth. But we frequently did fliat those who receive most cultivate a spirit of grasping ambition and never areasisfied. The North, therefore, domainds all. And althought was proposed by Southern men to extend the Missouri line to the Pacific line, as regards Oregon and the New Mexican possessions, it was voted down by the North, on the principle that they would have all or they would not accept of the Compromise. They used this question to lia direct extremity. The country had to meet it. Some portion of the Southern people irritated, believing that the North had the power of numbers and was determined to exercise it, desired them to withdraw from the Union, and the practical issue was made in Georgia, Mississippi, and some other Southern States. A great Union party was formed to save the country, alike from the aggressions of the North and from any results that might accrue from the Irritated state of feeling among some of the Southern people. They sneeceded. They formed this party, and made a compromise that was admitted to be a settlement of the slavery question. It was thought to be a final settlement. (Applainse.) acts of 1850. He save that they contain the party warfare, and the malignity of the small minds who very often conduct it, may take just as such as it said about me for truth as you please, or you may say, "I must attribute a great deal of this to party passion and the prejudice of the hour-it will be unjust to pass my independ upon him in such a time as this." I am content that you shall hold in abeyanea your judgment until your private desire seek my acquaitance, or until I come hefore you in acque way when you will have a necessity for acts of 1850. He says that they contain the principle he contends for to-day—non-intervention by Congress without qualification—the want of power in Congress to interfere with a Territorial Legislature, and the acknowledgment of the Inherent power of that Legislature, and that the Courts and not Congress should decide whether the Territorial Legislature acted right or wrong. What does he mean by the doctrine of non-intervention? I will read from a speech made by him in the Senate of the United States. It was his campaign speech, delivered on the 15th and 16th of May Last. He says: "Now, Mr. President, I think I have shown vary conclusively, that, in 1848, the Democratic party agreed to the doctrine of non-intervention by Congress either for or against slavery in the Territories; that Congress should not interfere either to establish or abolish slavery, or to protect or maintain it."

That Is unqualified non-intervention. He says the Democratic party was committed to the doctrine of non-intervention—not to establish or prohibit, but to maintain and protect it. That is the meaning he gives. What power does he claim for the Territorial Legislature—exclusive power to legi-late—the supremacy of the Territorial Legislature, and that Congress has no power to interfere whit the subject of slavery in the Territories at all. This being bis hiterpretation of the word non-intervention—this being what he means when he says the Territorial act of 1850 is the basis of his doctrine—let in stock to the record and see how tar its true—how far his doctrine is maintained by the conpromise acts.

CLAY NOT A SOUATTER.

CLAY NOT A SQUATTER.

I say, and I speak for myself abone, yet I believe I speak the sentiments of Mr. Breekin-ridge and Mr. Lane, and of the streat National Democratleparty, that the National Democrations of Mr. Douglas or his democrations of Mr. Douglas or his democrations, however bitter they may be. [Loud applause.] Although he charged us with being interventions, however bitter they may be. [Loud applause.] Although he charged us with being intervention of the compromise acts and against intervention as contemplated by these acts, that is the Democratle party represented by Breekindge and Lane. [Applause.] Now let us see, Here is this Louisville speech, in which he charges us with being opposed to these doctrines, and alleges that he and his friends are the advocates of them. Knowing your fondness for the great man who now aleeps in Ashland—knowing how redolent your memorius are with the glories of the great Kentneky atteeman with whom, no inster how much you may have differed with regard to international policy, yet whose abilities and renown form a part of the country's character—the immortal Clay—he appealed to this great man and asked, "If these measures are disturbed, where will the country dind another Clay."

Fellow-cittzens, my hand and my voice will sliways be, is now, has ever been, raised to preserve from the descention of Squatter Sovereignty the work of Clay and Webster. [Long continued applanse.]

TERRITORIAL GOVERNMENTS.

I hold in my hand the Compromise Measure of 1850. I ask your attention while I read from that part of 1st—the one in relation to forming the Territorial Governments—the clanse that establishes the doatrine of Congressional non-intervention, as they understeed it who framed it, as the National Democracy understand it now, as I understand it and accept it. [Applause.]—It is the second section of the act forming the Territorial Government of New Mexico. Remember that the point of assalinent of the institution of slavery was the Wilmot Provisa, which declared that Congress had the power to exclude slavery, to prohibit its introduction when it organized a Territory, sayling that slavery should be forever prohibited in the incoming states, and that no more slave States could come into the Union with a Constitution recognizing slavery. Jongress had the power to reject her. Ton acc now that the decirine of non-intervention meant by the act of Compromise was, that Congress endl uciliter sholish no reject a state on account of their slavery or anti-slavery Constitution. TERRITORIAL GOVERNMENTS. unt of their slavery or anti-slavery Consti-account of their slavery or anti-slavery Consti-tion. I will read:

"Provided faither, That when admitted as a State the said Territory, or any part thareof, shall be admitted into the Union, with or with-out slavery, as their Constitution may prescribe at the tlue of their admission."

GENUINE NON-INTERVENTIONISTS. There is what the doctrine of non-interven-tion and the Compromise acts of 1850 means. This is the doctrine with which the National Into is the doctrine with which the National Demosracy combat the black liepublican party. The National Demosracy stand in it to-day. I am here to-day its advocate, as I have always been its advocate. [Applause.] Congress cannot establish slavery. [A voice—"That a the doctrine."] The Constitution does not astablish slavery. Suppose Congress should pass a law that there should be slavery in Washington Territory. Would it establish slavery their by state in the end of the law with a there should be slavery in Washington Territory. Would It establish alavery their by an olong? Of course not. The law might remain for years, and there still be no slavery there. But you can establish slavery there. Let one single ludividual, no matter how humble, carry one slave there, and he establishes alavery. [Applause.] The Constitution does not undertake to give you the title to property. The Coustitution of the make property. The Coustitution recognizes as property. The Coustitution recognizes as property whatever the States choose to recognize as property in the States upon theelf the duty of protecting that property when not in the States. When in the States sovereignty protects it. Thus State sovereignty protects it. Thus State sovereignty protects in the states when in the States and stripes—our new may from our shores, in some little ship over which float the atars and stripes—our nestional dag—let either pirate, nation, or individual assail the right of property there; let the right of a citizen be assalled, and the arm of the law will be stretched forth for his protection—li is the duty of the law to extend him its protection. Go to the Territories in which there are no Territories lgovernment—go there with some property, whether a negro or a horse, it makes no difference, so long as it is what the Constitution recognizes as property. Go to any Territory owned by the Government for the United States learn of the aircumstance than they would order out the dragoons to protest, not the life only, but the property that was taken by the hostile hand from a portion of our country, where the Federal Government has juri-diction. Go also to the Territories that are organized, and have this Territories that are organized, and have this Territories that are organized, Of course not. The law inight rethis clause is congressional non-luterveution in the making of the organic act, is in the final ad-mission of that territory under a State Constiraine the Constitution.

But Mr. Douglas says while all that is true.

the Constitution of the Luited States and the provisions of this act."

This is similar to the Kansaa act. All right purishes of the section of the constitutions. But, then, what says this very provision:

"All laws passed by the Legislative Assembly shall be supposed by the Legislative Assembly that the National Democracy All laws passed by the Legislative Assembly shall be supposed to the Congress of the United States for help proved; and, if disapproved, shall be until and vold."

Thus you see that the National Democracy Thus you see that the National Democracy and appreciation of their own rights calls the received the compromise act of 1850. They ask nothing more. They say that while Corners shall not intervene to establish or present the constant all improvident legislation all the rights of the people of the Territories of the United States. They sake these principles upon that shall are shall and void. That is the despised to the Congress of the Territorial Legislation all the rights of the people of the Proposition and the United States. They sake these principles upon that shall are shall and void. That is the despised dortine that is now called secession, and doubting, and every other term of ignority about the state of the Congress of the proposition of the congress of the Territorial Legislation all the winds of the Proposition of the Congress while as a special state of the proposition and the submitted to Congress of the Proposition and the submitted to Congress of the Proposition of the proposition of the proposition of the Congress of the Proposition of the Congress of the Proposition of the proposition of the Congress of the Proposition of the Congress of the Proposition of the Proposition of the Congress of the Proposition of the Congress of the Proposition of t osition, but Mr. Douglas, in the Senate, desired have it incorporated into the Territocial act of Kansas. He wanted to assert the supremacy of the Territorial Legislature. The South stood firm. The Southern Senators said the Constitution makes it the dniy of Congress to protect property of all sorts. Now slave property, instead of being proscribed by the Constitution, seems to have been a favorite with those whereast that instrument, because there is no provision in the Constitution tor the importation of any kind of property except slave property, and there was a clease inserted that that importation might continue natil 1808; then there was another clause elinebing that one, and saying that the provision in relailon to the importation a slaves should not be repealed. But the Democracy contend for nothing more than it shall have the content of the states of the same reflection of the same reflection. slaves should not be repealed. But the Democracy contend for nothing more tann it shall have the same protection as other property that is all they ask. Sentlemen, you have land, Ilon'l you ask the law to protect your right to that land, by providing against trespass and punishing trespassers? You have laws for the protection of hogs, too. You have certain marks for your hogs, as provided by law. Does the law in relation to marking hogs apply to your piece of land? Certainly not. But there are different laws in relation to hegs and to land, because the protection should be made to accord to the mature of the thing protected, and the nature of the assaults likely to be made on the think protected. The log needs one osltron, but Mr. Donglas, in the Senate, desired

land, because the protection should be made to accord to the nature of the thing protected, and the nature of the nassaults likely to be made on the think protected. The log needs one kind of protection—land another. Slaves quire for their protection, a law a little different from either, because their nature is not similar to either. Slaves have reason; no other kind of property has. You can whisper in the car of a slave and he will understand you. A horse never will. The same law in relation to property holds as good in one as the other; but that law, must be made to vary according to the nature of the property. We dramand unthing more than equal protection. All other species haven right to protection of law according to the nature of the property. We dramand unthing more than equal protection. All other species haven right to protection of law according to the nature of the assailments usn; ally made. You have no right to discriminate against slavery naiess you come out straight and say it is wrong, and should be abolished. There is no discrimination asked in its favor. But let us see some more of Mr. Douglas. He says that they can, by a majority of the people, pass has unfriendly to slavery; therefore slavery cannot go there if a majority of the people say it shallnot. Mr. Hunter said in the Senate of the United States, that was not right. He and Mr. Douglas had a dispute about the matter, and what did they do? They agreed to disagree. I have got a speech here—one of Mr. Dauglas' speeches have a speech here one of the matter, and what did they do? They agreed to disagree. With regard to the point, Mr. Douglas declared that Mr. Hunter stated that the two parties disagraed—that they finally agreed to disagree. With regard to the power of the Territorial Legislatine, they wo tervene, but it is that other part of the law which we did disagree about, and that was that Congress could not prohibit or establish. As to whether is sould maintain or protect, we left that to the Cont. [Applanae.]

The Cincinnati platform was framed in 1856. Did that adopt the non-intervention dout the of the Kansas bill? Mr. Douglas says that it did. Ile says the framers of the Cincinnati platform did adopt it: I say they did not. [A voice—"Yon're right."] I refer you to that set. In the platform of the party you will find there is not one solitary word about the extent of the the platform of the party you will find there is mot one solitary word about the extent of the power of the Territorial Legislature. They said they indured and approved the Kansas act. That established the dectrine that Congress could not intervene to establish or prohibit slavery, but it did not say that it could not intervene to indintain or protect, because it had in it the clause that in case of the refusal of Congress to approve of a Territorial set, that act should be null and void. Then Squatter Sovereignty was not there. Neither was end doctrine there. We had agreed to abide by the

of Congress to approve of a Territorial set, that act should be null and void. Then Squatter Sovereignty was not there. Neither was our doctrine there. We had agreed to abide by the declarion of the Supreme Court, and make it apart of the Democratic platform. The party in Cinicinast refused to decide the question involved in the Supreme Court decision.

Hence, then, the Cincinnati platform pretermitted an expression of opinion as regards the powers of a Tarritorial Legislature. You will find in it a clausa that a State has a right to admission with or without slavery, as her Constitution may say. That is non-intervention. [Applanae.] Then the Compromise act is with an and against Mr. Donglas, and the Kansasact for neither of ns. because its provisions were left to the Supreme Court. Let us go to the Supreme Court decision. It was rendered in 1857. What is that decision? There is no need of my reading it. You are all perfectly familiar with it, I suppose. That decision is that the Government of the United States recognizes, that the Constitution recognizes shave a as property; that, therefore, it is the duty of the General Government to protect it wherever the Federal Government to protect it wherever the Federal Government is protected. wherever the Federal Government has jurisdiction. The decision was that Congress had the right to acquire Territory. It did so for the benefit of all the people. The decision then goes on to say what kind of Government shall be established. It states distinctly the nature of the trust, the trust belong for the henefit of the people, the Government must so administer it. As the Constitution recognizes slaves to be property, then the Territorless must be held in trust equally for the benefit for the slaveholder and the non-slaveholder. [Applaine.] That set its the question that Congress could not exclude slavery. Then the Judges go on to say that sometimes Congress establishes inferior tribunation and the non-slaveholder. In the foreign of the trust, as Congress must administer the Government of the Territory according to the nature of the trust, as Congress must administer the Government for the benefit of those who hold slaver; that no inferior tribunal can do that which Congress cannot do, and as Congress eannot exclude slavery neither can a Territorial Legislainne.—There were nine Judges in the case. Two of them were against us. Mr. Douglas now asys that that part of the argument which relates to the Territorial Legislature la not binding. The Judges asid, we think, that part is before us.—They decided that the whole question was before them, and all argued it; all gave their opinions. Seven out of the nine are in favor of the compromise act of 1850, and the doctrine of protection to property. Seven out of the nine are in favor of the compromise act of 1850, and the doctrine of protection to property. Seven out of the nine are in favor of the compromise act of 1850, and the doctrine of protection to property. Seven out of the nine are in favor of the compromise act of 1850, and the doctrine of protection to property. Seven out of the nine are in favor of the compromise act of 1850, we have the Supreme Court decision with ns. The Kansan act and the Cincinnati platform it was laceded what was the Cincinnati pla crossing a t. I have no doubt of it. But I was not. He says I was not, when he saw what he gave a correct delineation of our respective positions. I would not take the Cincinnati platform without the indorsement of the Dred Scott dacision because it pretermitted the expression of Squatter Sovereignty and every other sovereignts until the supreme Court decided. For me to take it without the decision, would be to shrink from the decision. For the Democracy to agree to abide by it, and then when thade refuse is any whether they would shide by it or would not abide by it, and then when thade refuse is any whether they would shide by it or would not abide by it, would that have been Democratic, my countrymen? Would that have been acting faithful to the compact? Would it have been true to the agreement? I put the question to you, would it have been straight-forward work? The platform called for the decision and it was the distinct understanding that when made, both parties should abide by it. It was because the Cincinnati platform called for it, was because the Cincinnati platform called for it, was because the decision was made in our favor.—The reason why Douglas was willing to take it without the decision, was because the decision was not in the matter. Therefore, where the Democracy now stand to-day, upon the Cincinnati platform, with following explanatory resolutions, which are simply an Indorsement of the Sarpene Court's decision, they have done that which the Kanasa-Nebrusha compact bound them to do—They have done that which the Kanasa-Nebrusha compact bound them to do—They have done that which the Kanasa-Nebrusha compact bound them to do—They have done that which the Kanasa-Nebrusha compact bound them to do—They have done that which the Ginesianti Platform bound them to do. They have done that which the Ginesianti Platform ment of our fathers all in dorsel the canase now haing pursued by the Ne thousel Democratic party, which is regirescate.

They have done that which it was to their interest to do—taken a decided stand in favor of the protection of their property of every species—they have done that which it was to their interest to do—taken a decided stand in favor of the protection of their property of every species—they have done that which a knowledge and appreciation of their own rights calls them to do. [Applause.] He who is affected to take the decision of the Supreme court on this question—he who won't take it—I pronounce him, in the name of the Clucinnati platform, to be no Dennocrat, aithough he be a good Douglas may. [Loud applause.]

Now, them, why was it that Alabama demanded of the party at Charleston and at Baiti more that she should do this? Mr. Yancey's Appointments. Mr. YANGEY speaks at SPRINGFIELD, Washington county, TO-DAY. TO-MORROW (Flursday) afternoon, on the arrival of the cars from Louisville, he will speak at BOWLING GREEN. FRIDAY NIGHT he will speak in NASHVILLE, Tennessee.

Mr. Yancey in Louisville. Mr. YANCEY spoke in Loniaville yesterday. The announcement that he would address our people attracted more than usual altention, the nterest being excited, not more by his fame ae an orator, than by the attacke of his onerules and the misrepresentations of his political

Owing to his appointments in the future, Mr. Yancer was compelled to speak in the afteroon, at an honr that made it impossible for thousands to turn out, who wished to hear him; but before the time named (2:30 P. M.), the east room of the Court House, one of the largest and finest halls in the conniry, was densely packed with those anxious to listen to the Great Orator, undreds of tadies, for whom acata had been provided, being present. Except those on the latform, and others provided for the ladies, there; were no seals lu the hall, from which usands, nnable to find standing room.

turned away disappointed. Being introduced to the andience by Gov. Macorrix, he proceeded at once to a discussion of the questions at is we in the pending Presidential canvass or connected therewith. To say that he diet of all parties is that he is the first orator ln the country; and though evidently fatigued and comewhat worn by the arduons labors of the canvass, during which he has traveled from one end of the Confederacy to the other, speaking almost daily, none were disappointed in the orator, though very many were surprised at his moderation and fairness and frankness, it not convinced by his arguments.

The hall, it is said, will hold four thousand oile, and if so, as we believe is the case, here were all of that number present, many of whom differ from Mr. YANCET, and are opposed to Mr. BEECKINKIDER; but, to credit of Louisville be it said, all lietened with respectful attention to the speech, and very frequently, indeed, he was applauded as never a Democratic orator was applanded before in this city. Its effort was marked and felt. We heard, on all sides of us, men declare that his points were made clearer, his positions illustrated more forcibly, and his arguments ore strongly fortified than by any speaker they had ever before heard; and more than one wa have since met, told us frankly that they are eatisfied it is their duty to vote for their country and not for party-for Burckinhings against

As we publish elsewhers a full phonographia ort of the speech, we refer our readers to It for a knowledge of what he said, and are sure all will read it with pleasure, and, we hope, not a few may derive profit therefrom.

More Fusion.

Douglas' advice is being adhered to by his friends. They will fuse with anybody, and unite with anything, to strike down the Consti-Intional Democracy. We all remember how, two years ago, Mr. DOUGLAS set the example since but too faithfully followed by his friends, when he joined liale, SEWARD, &c., in trying to turn Bright and Firemont of the United States Senate in order to put in their stead Mc-CLARTY, a Douglas anti-Lecomptonite, and LANE, a Black Republican. From that day to this, the particular friends of Mr. Douglas have availed themselves of every opportunity to af-Llinte more closely with the Abolitionisis.

Another instance now presents itself. In Oregon, the Donglasites and the Black Republicans first fueed to obtain the organization of the Legislature. They succeeded. Now, we are informed, by the news from the Pacific coast, that their plans have been successful still further. Douglas' boast to the Abolitlonist Burling May been made good. He and those with whom he la allied have got gallant Joe Land's head in a basket! Nexaming, Douglasite, and Baker, a brawling Abolitlonist, are elected united States Senators from Oregon? Comment is nunccessary.

The Squatters have some cause to necuse Yancer of ingratitude. He terrible exposition of Douglasin went laws and colon.

YANCEY of ingratitude. His terrible exposition of Douglasiam yesterday, would have been bad enough from any ene, but coming from a man whom they desired to take to their bosoms and load with their honors, and under whose lead as second in command they hoped to marely to ian says:

During his sojourn he was the guest of his friend, Chas. L. Mosby, Esq., and left the residence of that gentleman before daylight yesterday moining, to take the Alexandria boot which runs from the Virginia and Tennease Rallroad depot, and connects with the cars on Daniel's Island. Arriving at the spot an hour before the time of departure, and before the place was lighted up, he was instructed by a servant to walk down in the direction of the spot where the boat manally lies. The boat was not at the mooring, however, and Mr. Stnart, after getting to the bottom of the stairs, landed in the canal, and lound himself in water beyond his depth.—Notwithstanding the darkness, and his Inshifty to swim, he struggled out, losing only his hat, embrella, and file trip. The gentlemanty proprietor of the Fiedmont House took him in charge, and he was able to leave town last night without extifering any injury from the disaster.

A FLARESENG DISTINCTION.—INDURANT CONglorious victory, it is unhearable! They wanted to make him a candidate for Vice President. and he rejected their offer with scorn; and wherever he speaks he gives a reason for refusing a political association with the "traveling adidate for President," by showing up the la consistency and the bad faith of him who file in the face of his own agreement, and in deliance of the Constitution and the decision of the Court, arrogantly assumen the right to force upon his old party assoclates, dogmes and doctrines they abhor!

No candid man who listened to YANCET sterday will question his sincerity and enrnestness, no matter how much they may differ from his conclusions. And those who take into consideration his opportunies for acquiring consideration to his emphatic declaration, that he does not believe Mr. Douglas will get one electoral vote; and that exec; t in Kentucky and ouri he does not believe John Bell has the ghost of a chance for a single State, with the ancea against him in each of these.

A FLATTERING DISTINCTION—INDIGNANT CONTRETS.—A Naples letter has the following surious marrative:

The 1,500 convicts at Castellamare, taking advantage of the abacenae of the military, requested their liberty for one day. The officials, as you may well suppose, received this singular application with all sorts of restrictions; but having ne means of restrictions; but having ne means of restating the somewhat threatening supplications of the applicants, they hit upon the expedient of requiring each of them to give "his word of honor" that he would return at night. Wonderful to relate, the convicts kept their word, and every one returned without having done minry to mybody during their short interval of liberty. A gentleman residing in the neighborhood, having some doubt as to the honorable insention of these worshies, ordered his gardener to keep the gates closed and to be on his guard. "It is altogether unnecessary, sir," said the man, "the convicts at Castellamare are murderers, but not thieves." A finitering distinction, certainly. Mr. YANGEY declared for the Union and enforcement of the laws, and made an able argument in favor of non-intervention, in his speech yesterday, and proved that on these questions at least he stands with Mr. BRECKIN-RIDGE. As these two points cover the pintforms of the Belleverite and Douglas parties. why can't they come over and go with the Democracy to beat Lincoln?

A STRANGE COMPLIMENT.—A correst orders of the ability and cloquence; and many from whose we could have expected any thing cisc were free to say, that they saw in it but little to condemn and very much worthy of their warmest approbation.

LORD LYONS INDER ARREST.—While the royal party and the heterogeneous erowd which followed thom were entering the Executive nameion, at Albany, a very conscientious, but not very discriminating p diceman, took Lord Lyons by the collar, in order to prevent his entrance. The guardian of Albany's weal compressed his lordship's epiplotic until there appeared apon the countenance of the victim decided symptons of strangulation. This mistake was soon made apparent, however, when the distinguished diplomat made his way to the royal presence. Ills adventure cansed a general laugh, and somebody made allusion to hearding a lion, &c., but the pun was not ampre-PROFITABLE.-A bale of cotton belonging to W. R. W. Fishke, of Virginia, who was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention. More testimony would be superfluons. Now granting that Mr. YANGEY is no bad a man, and as daugerous a man as the Louisville Democrat pretends to believe that he la, what are we to think of the faction it represents offering to make him their leader and indorsing him in their Convention by giving him the nomination for the second highest office in the gift of the Amerlean people?

Here is Mr. Fishen's letter: To the Editors of the Enquirer: Eastville, Va., Oct. 15, 1860. GENTLEMEN:—In your paper of the 12th in-stant, which has this moment come to hand, I observe, in an editorial, that you have received a mumber of letters from different parts of the Union, asking exact information as to the ten-der of the Vice Presidential nomination made by the Douglas men to the Hon. Wm. L. Yan-cey.

As I witnessed that tender, and had heard that some were disposed to deny it, I sometime since requested some of my friends if they should see it denied in any paper, to send me the paper, or inform me of the lact. Up to this time I have not seen or heard the fact contradicted, and therefore have had no occasion to state the lacts in regard to the proposition.

But if it has been, or shall be denied by any one, I authorize you to state the fact that the proposition was made by a prominent friend of Judge Douglas. In the room of Mr. Fugh, of Alabama, in the city of Washington, in the presence of Sidney S. Baxier, Esq., tormerly the Attorney General of Virginia for seventeen years, and now an eminent lawyer of Washington, and of Col. E. W. Hubard and myself, when I was on my way from the Richmond Convention to the Baltimore Convention, and before the meeting of the latter.

I made the statement ha a speech from the public hustings in Baltimore on Friday night, the 28th of September, and I have not heard that It was contradicted, although I have no doubt there were some Douglas men present at the time. I repeat, that you may paine ma sthe author, if any gentleman shall deny it. I will state the name of the gentleman who made the proposition to Mr. Yancey at the foot of this letter, but it may not be necessary to mention his name unless my statement shall be contradicted. I do not believe that that gentleman will contradict it. As I witnessed that tender, and had heard will contradict it.

You can publish the facts in any way you please, if it be necessary. There was nothing of a secret character in the manner of renewing a proposition to Mr. Yaneey, which I understood had been previously made to him.
I write in haste, in the midst of a trial in const. Very respectfully.

A Passage in the Life of Mr. John Bell.

The 20th of December, 1897, was a memorable day in Congress. It was then that the system of anti-slavery agliation, which has been since so persistently Kepi np, was fairly inaugurated in that body. Mr. Slade, of Vt., moved to refer two memorals praying the abolition of slevery in the District of Colmibia to a select committee, and obtaining the floor on that moilon, proceeded to deliver a most inflammatory Abolition harangue. Repeated ciforly were made by Southern members to prevent the progress of the speech by calls to order and moilons to adjourn. But Slade having the floor, refused to yield it, and was suffered to proceed. The excitement was intense. Mr. Wise, of Virginia, Mr. Holsey, of Georgia, Mr. Rott, of South Garolina, and perhaps others, called upon the delegations from their respective State at once to withdraw from the House, and notice was given by the last named gentleman of an immediate meeting of the Southern members in the committee room of the District of Colminina. At Isa, Mr. McKay, of North Carolina, made a point of order which the Speaker austained, and Slade was forced to give way, still, however, keeping his feet, with the intention of resuming his speech if possible. Mr. Rencher, another nember from North Carolina, needed the opportunity thus afforded of getting the foor, and moved an adjournment.—The South and the Conservative men of the North voted for the adjournment, white Slade and his backers opposed it. The list of nays was headed by John Quincy Adams, and munbered 63, among whom was included the whole Abolition strength in the House. Three nominal Southern men only voted against adjourning, so as to enable Slade to continue his apecal. They were Milligan, of Delaware, White, of Kentneky, and John Bell, of Tennese, the Union caudidate for the Presidency.

The meeting of Southern members was held, and it was proposed at once to abandon their sents in Congress and return to their constituent, but moderate c A Passage in the Life of Mr. John Bell. 2004

E. KLAUBER, PHOTOGRAPHER AND PROPRIETOR

Are growing rove in favor with the public. It is now conceded they are the best purgative yet put lorth from the world of medicine. The time will surely arrive when they will supercede all other purgatives whatever. The ingredients of which they are composed can scarcely be obtained by druggists or the makers of other pills. Dr. Brantoarn has them grown and prepared without regard to the expense. And this care to make a popular purgative is appreciated, as their sales indicate. Other purgative are dragging a flickering existence. And yet they may have some merit. But Brantoarn's Pills are safe and sore—safe, because they operate solely to inpure humors. No valuable fluid is touched; only effete or wornout material, which, when taken out of the holy, leaves it stronger. They are as pleasant as a truly affective mellicine cambe. To say that they will not concetimes give pala would not be true, butthe pain they give is only hecase they remove those crude and bad humors from the blood which are the occasion of disease. They open nature's avenues, and this cannot always be done pleasantly. HRANDHETIFS PILLS anty,

OFFICE OF LOUISVILLE POTRIER. TUE-DAY EVENING, October 21, 1860. In the mouey market there is no change of importance to notice. The demand for money is only mod erate, and nane but those having strictly first class paper to offer are able to negativate loane. There is no change in the market for exchange. In the general market there is no change in note ains unchanged, with a fair demand for home consumption and shipping at $3 for superfine, $5 25@$5 75 for extra, and $6 00@$6 25 for lancy family brands. There is a feir demand for wheat at $1.05% $1.15 for prime red and white. Corn and onto are quiet and unchanged. Groceries remain unrhanged, with but a small home demand for sugar at $5, $95, $7. Molarace duli at 1997. Coffee eleady at $5, $6, $55. Mose pork continues exceedingly dull with no demand, and helders are auxious to shove sales, but are mable to effect any; we quote at $18 M. There is a good-demand for become tyesterdey equotections. There is a small demand for lard at 1939. The following, in regard to provishing and hogs at Cincinnati, we take from the Gazetty of today:

Cincinnati, we take from the Gazetts of today:

There was a moderate demand for moss pork, with sales of city packed at $17.87.5. Clear bacton aides were wanted at $13.87, but holders asked $13.57. No demand for rib sides or schoulders, which are duil and nominal. There is a continued steady untward in verment of pork and bacton. A large proportion of the early packing will go to lingland direct, this season. Whicky had another fall today, it having sold down 10.176, closing unsettled. The supply is largely in excess of the demand, and unloss the production is dimitished, the price promises to douch as low a point soon as it has reached in this market for a great many years. A losing business for distillers, not with standing the great abundance of corn, will, of course, be the consequence. There are too many distillerles by one-half in this Western country, and the over-supply of stills makes the whole trade our profitable.

In hogs trete were sales today of M80 head, delivable first half of November at $8.50 act, and sold do annoted livery at $8.50 acts, indicating a steady market. One provision home In St. Louis made, this season, we are infermed $50 acts. It packed but law logs, but bought largely of products at low flagree, in the apring.
